"After running a single demonstration of Redneck Life at my main store EVERY person who played requested a copy of the game. We have been in business for 20 years and had not experienced a response such as this. We placed an order for a dozen games with our game distributor and sold out within the week, requiring that we contact the game manufacturer for more product (three game distributors that we deal with were out of stock). This product is a definite MUST have for your shelves, especially for the holiday season. All it takes is for the gaming store to run a demonstration of the game, then stand back!!.....So don't miss out on this product. It will certainly mean increased sales for your store!!"
